THE Millennial REPORT

Millennials and Gen Zs Value Experiences

The youngest generations are no less ambitious than their predecessors; more than half want to earn high salaries and be wealthy. But their priorities have shifted. Travel and seeing the world was at the top of millennials' list of aspirations (57 percent), while slightly fewer than half said they wanted to own a home (49 percent). They also were more attracted to making a positive impact in their communities or society at large (46 percent) than in having children and starting families (39 percent).

Generally, millennials think their ambitions are achievable. But for many, their dreams have been delayed by financial or other constraints.
